

Instructional Materials Procedures

The intent of this document is to disseminate the process for communicating and providing access to a current and accurate list of instructional materials for every credit course offered by Central Texas College to include traditional and alternate delivery instructional methods.

Instructional Departments Responsibility:

1. Identify the instructional materials.
2. Verify the item(s) availability, currency, and correct student edition ISBN with textbook publisher.
3. Proceed with their departmental book adoption/review process.
4. Update course syllabi, stating only the URL for the Instructional Materials web site. This will ensure consistency and currency of the required course materials. The updated syllabus will reflect the textbook change in unit objectives and learning activities.
5. Follow the Guidelines for Instructional Material Reporting (page 3) and enter all instructional materials information, for all delivery methods, into the department's Instructional Materials spreadsheet.
6. Review and revise the list on a quarterly schedule beginning at least 12 weeks prior to the January, April, July, and October start dates.
7. Send the spreadsheet to Instructional Services per the quarterly schedule or as needed for exceptions. (page 7)
8. Remember due dates. Once the department spreadsheets have been compiled, no further changes can be made.

Instructional Services Responsibility:

1. Instructional Services is responsible for the institution's list of instructional materials. This list includes ALL active credit courses regardless of where offered or by which delivery method.
2. The list is maintained in a database accessible through a searchable web site at www.ctcd.edu/books
3. The web site allows for searches for specific courses by their course identifier and by the instructional method.
4. Upon receipt of the Instructional Materials spreadsheets from each Instructional Department, Instructional Services compiles the information into a database, updates the Instructional Materials website, and provides the revised master list to: CTC Bookstore Textbook Manager, MBS Direct, Campus Deans, and Distance Education & Educational Technology. Instructional Services follows the quarterly calendar in the disbursement of the reports (Page 7).
5. A 'Notes' field is included on the Instructional Materials spreadsheet that reflects immediate or future changes impacting textbook availability and/or changes. Any other information deemed necessary to ensure that the student has pertinent information regarding the course instructional material(s) requirements is also included in this field; i.e. need jump drive, must have paint brush, need scientific calculator, need eraser, must be able to read and write, etc.

Central Campus Bookstore Responsibility:

Review the quarterly Instructional Materials report for acquisitions needed.

MBS Direct Responsibility:

Review the quarterly Instructional Materials report for acquisitions needed.

Campus Deans Responsibility:

Review the quarterly Instructional Materials report for acquisitions needed.

Distance Education & Educational Technology Responsibility:

Review the quarterly Instructional Materials report for acquisitions needed.

Guidelines for Instructional Materials Spreadsheets

The instructional materials process begins with the Excel spreadsheet. If you have questions regarding Excel and/or formatting of the spreadsheet, please contact Instructional Services. It is important that the formatting not be changed. The spreadsheets are formatted to be converted to a database and displayed on the web.

Use the following instructions to complete/update departmental instructional materials spreadsheets:

NOTE: Review each piece of information on your spreadsheet and only make changes to those items that need changing. Please do not enter data in upper case.

Column A (Course ID)

Course identification – Combination of course prefix and course number - without a space. Example: BMGT2489

Column B (Print text ISBN)

Enter the 13 digit ISBN without spaces or dashes that will be used for the Print Text version of textbook.

Column C (E-Book ISBN)

Enter the 13 digit ISBN without spaces or dashes that will be used for the E-Book version of textbook.

ISBN – the International Standard Book Number (ISBN) is currently 13 characters in length, however there are exceptions, i.e. CTC published material, and materials assigned an MBS number. The 13 digit ISBN will be entered without any spaces or dashes. In some cases, even though you have entered the correct ISBN, Excel will delete any leading zeros unless formatted as text (right mouse click on cell – choose format cells). On the “number” tab select TEXT. Please verify ISBNs before submitting to Instructional Services. To convert 10 digit ISBN to 13 digits you can visit <http://isbn13converter.pearsoned.com/>. If an adoption will occur DURING the report cycle, place an asterisk next to the ISBN with the phrase “see notes” to alert the student to read further down the page. If you have any questions, please contact Instructional Services at extension 1154.

Column D (Method)

Method - This field is necessary for searching the instructional materials database from the web page. Field CANNOT be left blank. Please do not add any punctuation to this field.
