There are questions on the Texas Board of Nursing (TBON) Application for Licensure regarding criminal convictions, treatment for mental illness, and alcohol or drug addiction/ treatment. The TBON may deny licensure to individuals with previous problems in one or more of these areas. Please go to <http://www.bne.state.tx.us>, click on other Application and Forms, then Candidates for Licensure, then Declaratory Order Form for more information.

“Time Frames: Please note the eligibility determination takes a minimum of 3-6 months. Disclosure of a positive criminal background will prohibit registration. The student will be advised to petition the Board for an eligibility determination PRIOR to enrollment in a nursing program.”

The prospective student for the CTC Department of Nursing will not be considered for admission until the Declaratory Order outcomes (in the case of a positive criminal history background check) are received by the Chair of the Department from the prospective student/TBON.

Please refer to the “FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS REGARDING PETITION FOR DECLARATORY ORDER” on the TBON website for additional information.

How do I know if I want to become a Registered Nurse?

Becoming a Registered Nurse is a big commitment with many of learning and growth possibilities both personally and professionally. It requires dedication and discipline to become a professional. Working with individuals and their significant others to attain health is a most challenging endeavor. There will always be a great need for RNs in the workforce.

The Associate Degree in Nursing Program, two years in length for the nursing coursework, is one of three ways to become eligible for the NCLEX-RN®. In addition, a diploma in nursing and a bachelor's degree in nursing are options. Texas has two remaining diploma programs which are three years in length and are hospital-based.

Also, the bachelor's degree in nursing, or BSN, focuses on a broader level of preparation for entering the profession of nursing, includes a liberal arts foundation, and focuses on additional professional practice skills and experience areas.

The CTC Nursing Professors encourage and facilitate student to continue their education in nursing. Many of our graduates now possess undergraduate and graduate degrees in nursing as well as other disciplines.
